Ecommerce Sales Insights Report

Dataset: 50,000 transactions (2018–2019)
Domain: Retail / Ecommerce

1. Overview

This analysis examines sales transactions from an ecommerce company over a two-year period. The goal is to clean raw transactional data, create a structured database, and perform exploratory and revenue-based analysis.

The report highlights revenue drivers, customer behaviour, product performance, and strategic recommendations to improve business performance.

2. Data Preparation Summary

✓ Raw → Cleaned → Structured

The data was cleaned and standardized by:

- Converting inconsistent date formats

- Converting numerical columns (price, quantity) from text to numeric types

- Removing null or corrupted rows

- Splitting the dataset into Transactions, Products, and TransactionDetails (fact table)

- Handling negative quantities (returns)

This ensures accurate financial analysis and removes data quality issues.

4. Overall Business Recommendations

1. Strengthen UK-Dominant Operations

- Primary revenue is UK → optimize shipping, warehouse, promotions.

2. Reduce Returns

- This is one of the biggest revenue leaks.

- Check product categories with highest return rates.

3. Optimize Inventory for Peak Months

- Stock up from August onward.

- Create seasonal forecasts based on Q4 spikes.

4. Improve Low-Performing Countries

- Targeted marketing campaigns in UAE, USA, Bahrain, Brazil.

5. Focus on High-Revenue Customers

- CRM-based loyalty strategy

- Personalized offers

- Bulk purchase advantages

6. Promote Top-Selling Products

- Increase visibility

- Sponsored ads

- Bundle similar items

5. Conclusion

This ecommerce dataset shows a strong, stable revenue stream driven by a loyal customer base and seasonal product demand. The UK remains the core market, while product returns and December sales drop are areas of concern.

By focusing on inventory optimization, quality checks, customer retention, and targeted marketing, the company can significantly improve annual revenue and reduce losses.
